* National Meeting in St. Louis to Discuss Child Welfare from Every Angle. *

Mrs. Frederick Schoff, President of the National Mothers' Congress

Child welfare and the responsibility of the home to the child will be the main theme of discussion at the sixteenth annual convention of the National Mothers' Congress to be held in St. Louis March 20-26.

The Mothers' Congress is a great group of sociologists working under the conviction that upon the integrity of the home is based the perpetuity of the nation.

Wholesome food, juvenile court work, the public school curriculum, playground activities, marriage sanctity and the enlightenment of the parent will all be worked into the program.

The women of this organization believe that the welfare of a child hinges on the enlightenment of both parents. And man as well as women is invited to share in the proceedings. The advisory council, made up entirely of men, includes former President Roosevelt, Rev. Josiah
